

Selected Web Sites for Information about Common Complementary and Alternative Medicine Health Systems

(See Chapter 52, “Common Complementary and Alternative Medicine Health Systems,” for detailed information about this topic.)

<http://altmedicine.about.com/> (About.com; patient information on massage therapy, acupuncture, chiropractic care, Ayurveda, homeopathy, naturopathy, and other alternative therapies [click on Acupuncture to Yoga]; videos of chiropractic visit, massage therapy, acupuncture, muscle stretching, and other health topics)

http://www.holisticonline.com/hol_alt-therapies.htm (Holistic online.com; patient information on Ayurveda, acupuncture, chiropractic care, homeopathy, and other alternative therapies)

<http://www.naturopathyonline.com/> (Naturopathy Online; patient information on medical conditions, specific home treatments, healthy recipes; background information on naturopathy and other alternative therapies; and links to other information on alternative therapies)

<http://www.amtamassage.org/> (American Massage Therapy Association; Consumer Guide section provides background information on massage therapy, glossary of massage terms, and facts sheets; Find a Massage Therapist feature)

<http://www.acatoday.org/> (The American Chiropractic Association; Patients center provides patient information on history and practice of chiropractic, back pain statistics, health and wellness tips, and Find a Doc feature)

<http://www.homeopathic.org/> (National Center for Homeopathy; Articles center provides patient information on homeopathic treatment of epidemics and trauma; Homeopathic Resources provides links to organizations and institutions of interest and Find a Homeopath feature)

<http://www.homeoint.org/> (Homeopathie Internationale; provides articles on homeopathy and information on homeopathy training in English)

<http://www.abchomeopathy.com/homeopathy.htm> (abcHomeopathy; provides patient information on homeopathics and rationale for their use; A-Z index of Remedies; for professionals, list of international homeopathic courses and schools)

Copyright © 2012. American Pharmacists Association. All rights reserved. Any use is subject to the TERMS OF USE.